David Sanson
PHI 205

Read Austin (1961):

- "Performative Utterances"

This was first published in Austin's Philosophical Papers, a collection of his work published shortly after his unexpected death from lung cancer, at the age of 48, in 1960. It is a lightly edited transcript of a lecture he gave on the topic on the BBC in 1956. I have not been able to find the original audio of that lecture. The Harvard Philosophy Department has posted the audio from a talk on the subject that Austin gave at the University of Gothenberg, Sweden, in 1959, if you are curious.

I also want you to read a short selection from Lecture VIII of Austin (1962). It amounts to about 12 pages—I've crossed out the paragraphs that you are free to skip. This is from a series of lectures he gave in 1955. In this short selection, he makes a distinction between locutionary, illocutionary, and perlocutionary acts. (In the crossed out sections, he further subdivides locutionary acts into three kinds—it is interesting, and connects back to Frege!)

- Lecture VIII

Slides

- For Monday

References

Austin, J. L. 1961. "Performative Utterances." In Philosophical Papers, edited by J. O. Urmson and G. J. Warnock. Oxford University Press.

Austin, J. L. 1962. How to Do Things with Words. Oxford University Press.